

As someone familiar with the rural translator system, I can unequivocally state my support of a filing window for rural translators. Having seen firsthand the service translators bring to a community it is essential that the translator industry be able to serve their member communities. This can be provided by allowing the filing for new translators, serving areas otherwise forgotten.